ORA launches a new look site

The ORA announces a new look website that will be active on Monday December 19th. The new website features a crisp design with an added search engine capability. All of the content remains intact and will continue to be the resource for all governing policies, resources and ranking information.

The website address remains www.ontario-ringette.com.

The conversion to the new platform is the first step in an overall marketing strategy that will be deployed over the coming year.
